EARLY FRENCH EXPLORERS

The Work of Cartier, Champlain and Others in the Great Lakes.

W. S. Harwood writes in St. Nicholas of "The Great Lakes." Mr. Harwood says:

Jacques Cartier, who shipped from St. Malo in 1494, explored the coast of Newfoundland and made the circuit of the gulf of St. Lawrence, and he did much else, too, for New France in opening up negotiations with the many tribes of Indians who thronged thousands strong and friendly from all the regions in and about Quebec and Montreal and Ottawa and Kingston. Another mariner of St. Malo—Francois Greve—began the colonization of the land. About 1570, in France, Samuel de Champlain was born, and when he reached the age of early manhood he, too, joined in the new world exploration in the region above the great lakes. The kings of France were much interested in the new land and did all in their power not only to explore the region, but to colonize and develop it. Champlain, in 1615, made an expedition up the Ottawa river and penetrated as far as to Georgian bay, thus touching on the waters of Lake Huron.

In 1618 Etienne Brule, an old interpreter, came into Champlain's camp with the news of the discovery of Lake Superior. Lake Erie, with Ontario, was probably discovered some time earlier than this. Nicollet, in 1634, started in a canoe from the head of Georgian bay, skirted the eastern and northern shores of Huron and at last found himself at Saint Ste. Marie, or the falls of St. Mary, now shortened to "Soo"—the first white man, it is believed, to reach this key to the noble lake beyond. He went as far as Green bay, on Lake Michigan, and so the various lakes at last came into the actual knowledge of the explorers and were no longer myths.

But as these French explorers continued to develop new and hitherto undreamed of possibilities of empire the English began to take deep interest in the region—an interest little less marked than that they were then taking in their schemes of colonization in Virginia and Massachusetts. Again and again through the years that follow the threads cross and recross, not weaving a beautiful garment of harmony, but tangling in a wretched snarl, a patchwork of disputes between the nations.

Entanglement followed entanglement, wars harassed the land, until at last the English were masters of the northern lake region for all time—unless some day we shall see the stars and stripes floating from the heights of Quebec.

IN NEW YORK'S EARLY DAYS.

The Bowery Was the Resort of Wealth, Beauty and Fashion.

"A pleasant picture occurs to me of a summer picnic of the family of Governor Stuyvesant to and from the meeting house, for divine worship in the fat near the Battery, New York," writes Mrs. Britton Harrison in The Ladies' Home Journal, describing "When Fashion Graced the Bowery." "In a brave coach, drawn by shining horses, is encoached the governor himself, whose long, laced coat half hides his wooden leg bandied with silver. He wears a carefully curled peruke and holds his hat upon his knee, in order to court the cool sea breeze that fans his rugged visage. His lady, sitting in state beside him, is, in their staid and phlegmatic community, accounted a brilliant personage; her gowns came out from her native Paris, and her silken hood is worn over frizzled and powdered hair; her embroidered hose and high heeled shoes, her rings, bracelets and lockets, with the gorgeously bound book of devotions suspended by a golden chain to her waistband, may be depended upon as models of the very latest modes. Mrs. Bayard, the widowed sister of the governor, occupies a seat in the coach facing them.

"After service in the bare colonial church—where the domine's sermon, however eloquent, was always brought to an end by three raps from the clerk's stick at the moment when the sands of the hourglass had announced that the preacher's limit of time had been reached—the Stuyvesant party passes out between rows of respectful gazers."

The Lion of Keos.

There are lions and lions, but the lion of Keos is the lion of Hellas, says Professor J. Irving Mannatt in The Atlantic. The lions on guard above the gate of Mycenae may be older, but they have lost their heads and therewith their main majesty. The lion sentinel over Leonidas' grave at Thermopylae disappeared ages ago, though we still possess the inscription written for it by Simonides:

Of beasts the bravest I, of mortals he,
Upon this mound of stone now watched by me.

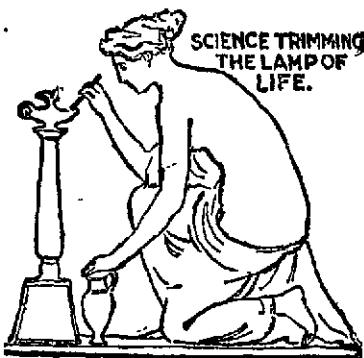

The lion of Chersonesa commemorates a great and definite event, but he has been broken to pieces. Better luck has attended the lion of Keos. Couched here on his flank in the living rock, with reverted head, 28 feet from tip to tail, every feature perfect, full of life and majesty, one can hardly think of him as a mere image made with hands. He looks rather as if in some prehistoric age—the colossus of his kind—he might have lain down here alive and turned to stone, possibly after clearing the island of its first occupants, for there is a myth handed down to us by an old writer that Keos was originally inhabited by the nymphs until they were scared away by a lion and fled to Karystos, leaving to the "jumping off place" the name of Lion point. At all events the monument and the myth make a perfect fit. Our lion is the very beast to strike terror into nymphs or any other unwelcome neighbors.

The Trans-Mississippi and International Congress is composed of delegates from every State and Territory West of the Mississippi river. The idea of this exposition originated in that Congress at its session at Omaha in 1895, and the project has become a National enterprise and the National Commission has been organized and is in active service, there being one commissioner for each of the several departments of the Government. Most of the Trans-Mississippi States are well along in the way of gathering exhibits from their respective States and many of them have made liberal appropriations, while others are preparing exhibits through private enterprise.

Vice-President H. B. Maxson of Reno, has made arrangements whereby he can get Nevada exhibits, shipped from any point in the State along the line of the C. P. R. R., to Omaha and return, and he requests all persons who wish the interests of the State advertised, to co-operate with the Exposition County Commissioner of his county, whose name is shown above, and prepare some product of his county and send it to the nearest point on the C. P. R. R. from which place it will be sent to Omaha and exhibited, and returned to the same point at the close of the exposition, free of expense to the exhibitor. Full information should accompany everything sent for exhibition. Before sending anything to the line of the railroad a full description should be given to the Exposition Commissioner of the county, who in turn will notify the Vice-President, who will notify him what action to take otherwise there might be many duplications. Apply to your County Representative for further information, and don't let this opportunity of advertising the resources of Nevada be lost.

Resolved, 'That the people of the Island of Cuba are and of right ought to be free and independent.'

THE PEACEFUL BLOCKADE IDEA
ABANDONED.

Washington specials say the President has abandoned the "peaceful blockade" idea and has issued orders to the commanding officer of the blockading squadrons that will give him opportunity to bombard each and every fortification that offers resistance.

If this be true it is in accord with the popular idea that our vessels, if able, should reduce the forts at the seaport cities of Cuba. It seems ridiculous from a civilian stand point to keep fleets at Havana and other fortified towns on the Cuban coast to prevent vessels from entering the harbors and not permit those fleets to fire a shot at the Spanish fortifications at the extrances to those harbors.

One of the objects for which the war is waged is to prevent the starvation of the Cuban patriots. This object cannot be attained by blockading the Cuban ports until the Spaniards as well as the Cubans are starved out.
The fact that the Spanish troops are on short rations because of the blockade does not fill the stomachs of the reconcentrados.

Ex-Senator Ingalls said when the pacific blockade was established at Havana that the task of reducing Morro Castle would never be easier than it was then unless the Spanish fleet should be completely annihilated. The warships of Spain were then on the other side of the Atlantic and Samp-son's fleet could deal exclusively with the shore fortifications. Now the Spanish fleet is in West Indies waters and unless it is annihilated or seriously crippled by the American fleet in the first engagement it will menace our cities on the Atlantic coast and compel Sampson or Schley to bring their vessels nearer home to protect them. Of course a decisive victory, such as that achieved by Dewey at Manila, would make the invasion of Cuba and capture of Havana comparatively easy, but if the battle is not decisive it will not be as easy a task to capture Havana as it was when the pacific blockade of that port was ordered.

INAPACITY OF OFFICIALS.

There is general complaint of the blundering of the officials entrusted with the disposition of troops for the Spanish war. Regulars have been taken from military posts in the Dakotas, Montana, Utah and Colorado, and volunteers from New England and other Northern States, and congregated in the fever breeding swamps of Florida.
Thousands of men from the extreme North are crowded into camps at Tampa and other places where water is so scarce that it is sold by the gallon.
Under such conditions it will be little less than a miracle if the hospitals are not filled with fever stricken soldiers before a troop ship sails for Cuba.

With a fleet, which the people are told could level all the fortifications at Havana in forty-eight hours, cruising within a few miles of those forts for nearly four weeks, not a port was opened in Cuba for the landing of an invading army, though, as stated, thousands of volunteers and regulars have been concentrated on the Gulf of Mexico ostensibly for the purpose of going to Cuba.

Evidently there should be more changes in the Cabinet, as the retirement of Secretary Sherman and Secretary Gary did not relieve that body of all the incompetents. As the Salt Lake Tribune says, "the atmosphere at Washington is too foul for the patriotic fires to burn with the necessary brilliance." There is too much Hama-nism and a desire to saddle free Cuba with the Spanish debt at our National Capital. The lives of our patriotic young men should not be sacrificed to further the ambition of place hunters and the desires of the gold syndicate.

True Blue.

Charles G. Winters of Mountain city, Nevada, having served five or six years in the United States Navy and was honorably discharged, started for Washington, upon hearing that hostil-ties had broken out between America and Spain and upon his arrival there called upon Senator Stewart to aid him in getting back into the Navy. He will probably receive a commission immediately. Mr. Winter paid his own expenses to the National Capitol.

The Nevada Boys Arrive at Their Destination.

Colonel Jay L. Torrey wired Governor Sadler from Obeysano that the Nevada Troop, U. S. Cavalry, had arrived at that point and were safely in barracks and all well. He also extended an invitation to the Governor to visit the regiment when its organization was completed.

WAR NEWS.

An unconfirmed dispatch from Havana published at New York is to the effect that an American vessel engaged in removing torpedoes at Cabanas was blown up and the entire crew perished.
Nothing is known at Key West of any such disaster.

A special from Washington says that Spain's fleet in the Caribbean Sea is to be met by a squadron consisting of the armorclads of the United States in North Atlantic waters. This seems to be the intention of the Board of Strategy and preparations are being made to effect the junction of Rear Admiral Sampson's fleet with the flying squadron under the command of Commodore Schley with all possible dispatch.

A dispatch from Santa Lucia, West Indies, reports a large strange war vessel lying off the west coast of that island. Other vessels were also sighted to the northward. It is believed these are a part of a squadron lying in wait for the battleship Oregon.

A dispatch from Cadiz says the dock yard authorities there have announced that the reserve fleet which would consist of the Pelayo, Carlos V, Alfonso XIII and the cruisers Rapido and Patria with torpedo boat destroyers Andaz and Prosperia will be ready for sea by the middle of the present week. It is surmised that this fleet will at once go to the Philippines unless what may happen at Havana changes the plans.

A special from Hong Kong says that Consul Wildman has just returned from Kowloon Bay where he took the insurgent leader General Aguinaldo and his Cabinet on the McCullough.
An arrangement was made for the insurgents to storm Manila. The dispatch adds that it is absolutely necessary that American warships and a strong military force be sent to Admiral Dewey's aid at once.

Chimney or Hearth Money.

What you call "chimney money" is the same as the house tax called "hearth money." It was established as a means of making up the deficiency in the revenue granted after the restoration to Charles II. It was repealed by I and II William and Mary, c. 10, but was reimposed in Scotland in September, 1690, at the rate of 1s. 2d. for every hearth. The repeal was one of the first boons conceded by William on his arrival.—"History of Taxation," by Dowell.

FROM DEACON.
The War Spirit Reigns in the Northwest Also.
SEATTLE, May 12, 1898.
EDITOR JOURNAL.—There is so little else than war to write, think or speak about that one scarcely knows how to keep up communications. Our first consignment of heroes to Manila took its departure last evening, on the new steamer Senator, and at least 10,000 people congregated at the wharf to wish the boys God-speed. Cannons boomed and flags flew from nearly every building on the water front. A patriotic people are the Seattleites and to most of them the name Spaniard has the same effect as a red flag to a wild bull.

Proud, very proud, was I to hear of the doings of the Nevada boys concerning the pending warfare. It was just what anyone acquainted with sage brush habits would have expected from the whole-souled boys of that State, who have on every occasion, when the honor or prosperity of their State was concerned, been first with money or other assistance to uphold her dignity and the national honor.

Several Nevadans have lately arrived in Seattle, among them Cutts, formerly of your city and Carson. Jim Minor, formerly Secretary of State, is here visiting his cousin, and has some idea of remaining should he secure the employment he seeks. You can imagine the pleasure his coming gave your humble servant, for no better man or warmer hearted friend ever lived than he.

Business generally has fallen off lately, the Alaska rush having partially subsided and I believe there are more idle men to be seen on the water front than I ever saw in any one city and per consequence the amount of small crime is on the increase.

Ours is a bicycle city—all ride the wheel; old, gray-headed men, ladies, young and old; parsons ride them to church and judges to the court house, and considering that within the city limits there are at least 125 miles of plank sidewalk, the custom is not surprising.

As I said above, there is not much to write about, but I cannot give up the custom of sending a line once in awhile, for fear you might forget me. I repeat that it would be a foolish act on the part of any man to leave a town where he can obtain a living for this State, at the present time, unless provided with a reasonable amount of coin, or on any account think of going to the Klondike, but things may recover, and should that prove the case I should quickly change my tune.

Yours,
DEACON.

THE WHEELMEN ENTERTAINED.
Mr. and Mrs. Pinniger Receives the Members at the Club Rooms.

President Wm. Pinniger of the Wheelmen's Club and his estimable wife entertained the members and lady friends royally at the club rooms last evening. Only members of the club were invited, each of whom was granted the privilege of inviting a lady. The members had arranged a program comprising athletics, vocal and instrumental music which was a pleasing feature of the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Pinniger assisted by the officers of the club, received the guests at the door and each was at once made to feel at home. At the conclusion of the program which had served to please the eye, ear and intellectual tastes, all were invited to well laid tables where the inner man received attention, the many delicacies being seasoned with a mingling of wit, humor and sentiment and many good wishes for the worthy President and wife. A bevy of handsome ladies attended the tables and the rooms were tastefully decorated with white and red flowers, the club colors. At a late hour the guests adjourned voting Mr. and Mrs. Pinniger royal entertainers.

FIRST NEVADA CAVALRY.
Men Joining From All Parts of the State.

The First Nevada Volunteer Cavalry is being rapidly organized at the rendezvous at Carson. Of the thirty-one men who were not required for the troop which left for Cheyenne to join Colonel Torrey's regiment, seven or eight went to their homes. Yesterday twelve enrolled men were passed by the medical examiner, making 38 on the roll of the troop. Four men from Reno, C. L. Bonham, Walter Perry, Ed Coughlin and M. Gibben, have joined or will join, and ten are booked from Wadsworth. Ten or twelve are coming from Enreka and White Pine counties, and it is probable that Esmeralda county will furnish eight or ten more. It is probable that the full quota of 84 men, including officers, will be in camp in a few days. The boys are anxious to get uniforms, as they say they will look and feel more like soldiers when they are dressed in Uncle Sam's blue.

Very few National Guardsmen are in the troop and it is likely if another call is made on Nevada that it will be for infantry.

UNFIT TO FIGHT
Ninety Per Cent of the Cigarette Smokers Cannot Pass the Examination.

The large number of rejections of volunteers has caused much comment in the army medical corps. However, the physicians who have concluded the examinations say that outside of the ranks of cigarette smokers there are fewer rejections than there was in the days of the Civil War. Among habitual users of cigarettes the rejections are about 90 per cent. Dr. Benjamin King of Philadelphia, who acted as an examining surgeon during 1861-63 in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois, says that the average rejections during those years did not exceed 13 per cent. He attributes the large increase almost entirely to the cigarette habit.

"I have been inspecting the papers in a number of cases under the present recruiting act," said Dr. King, "and I observe that most of the men who failed to pass the medical examination necessary to make a good soldier were cigarette smokers. I had expected that the percentage of rejections would be greater now than in 1861, but I did not dream that it would be almost three times as great. The examining physicians with whom I have talked have generally told me that the excess of rejections is due to the large number of young men applying for enlistment who have become victims of the cigarette habit."

A Texas Steer.

A capital attraction comes to the Opera House on Tuesday, May 24. One of Ohas. H. Hoyt's Satires, in fact, his best farce comedy "A Texas Steer" comes with the positive assurance of tremendous success. "A Texas Steer" is neither a dainty comedy nor a broad farce. It is a mixture of political satire and study and social evolution, and these two themes are blended together by making the central figure a member of Congress. The first act shows him and his family in their primitive condition in their Texas home. The second act, their first experience away from home, on the day of their arrival at Washington; the third and fourth, their state under the influence of a considerable sojourn at the Capitol.

Maverick Brauder, the Cattle King, who goes to Congress, is neither an idealized nor debased picture of the average statesman from the country, though perhaps he is endowed with fully as much horse sense and grim humor as the ordinary Congressman. "Bossy" his daughter, is a splendid type of the American girl in the crude, bright, lovable and independent, plucky and able by her force of character to make her way into society in spite of obstacles.

Surrounding these two prominent characters are any quantity of original and well drawn personages, perhaps the most notable being a colored office-seeker and a trio of Texas politicians, whose adventures in Washington, while trying to steer their Congressman in the right path, gives the title to the play, and furnishes an excellent satire on investigation.

Katie Putnam is at the head of the New York company and plays the part of "Bossy." Maurice Freeman is the Congressman and cattle king and the cast includes Will H. Bray, The Bison City Quartette, Wm. F. Walcott, Ben R. Cook, Lester L. Pike, Harry C. West, Frank A. Girard, H. H. Emery, Nadine Winston, Julia Graves, Mrs. W. H. Bray, Gustave Neville and Chas. L. Stevens.

Accidentally Shot.

George Kuhn, a Virginia Undertaker was accidentally shot Sunday morning. Kuhn and Thomas McNamara started to Washoe Lake on a days hunting. The latter stepped out of their cart to get some cigars and Kuhn held a gun between his knees the muzzle resting near his arm pit. When McNamara stepped back into the cart, the springing of the body of the vehicle jarred the gun causing it to discharge, the entire load of shot passing through and tearing away the under part of Kuhn's arm. No bones were broken, but the wound was an ugly one.

How Prize Money is Divided.
A dispatch to the Times from Washington, says: Rear Admiral Dewey and his men will not have been fully rewarded for their victory at Manila when they receive the thanks of Congress and the medals ordered to be struck for them. Under the law they have become entitled to a rich bounty. Unless the numerical importance of the fleet of Admiral Montejó has been over estimated, or its losses over-stated, the officers and men of the Asiatic Squadron will share between them something like $187,000, according to Section 4635 of the Revised Statutes of the United States.

According to the reports from Manila, the Spanish fleet destroyed by the Americans consisted of ten or twelve cruisers, gunboats and torpedo boats, with crews amounting in all to 1872 men. At $100 for each man of the Spanish naval force the amount to be divided among the American sailors will be $187,200. The vessels of the United States were, if anything, undermanned. The number will be under rather than over 1733.

The $187,200 will be distributed to the fleet under Section 4635 of the Revised Statutes relating to prize money. Admiral Dewey will get one-twentieth of the whole amount of bounty awarded to his command. That will give him $9360.

If he has a fleet captain, or what passes for one, the latter will have a share of something like $1800. There will be left to be distributed to the vessels of the fleet, according to their pay-rolls, about $175,000. This will go to seven ships and in about the following shares: Olympia, $45,000; Baltimore, $40,000; Boston, $25,000; Raleigh, $22,000; Concord, $20,000; Petrel, $12,000; McCaulough, $9,000.

To the commander of each single vessel there will go one-tenth of the amount assigned that vessel.

After the amounts mentioned have been deducted, the residue will be distributed to the lesser officers and seamen in proportion to their rates of pay on the day of the engagement.

The Boys Will Ride.

A petition was circulated and very numerous signed yesterday asking the University Faculty to permit three of the students to ride with the Wheelmen in their contest with the San Francisco Olympics next Sunday. The petition was presented to the Faculty in the afternoon by a committee of the Wheelmen and the matter was thoroughly discussed.

President Stubbs and the Faculty are very much opposed to contests of this nature on Sunday and so informed the Wheelmen. The latter urged that they had made all arrangements for the race and its postponement would entail a great loss upon them, besides discouraging contests of this character in the future. They also presented the fact that their own members as well as the team with whom they proposed to ride were nearly all, if not all, workmen and it would be impossible for them to arrange to ride on any other day.

The matter was carefully considered by the Faculty and permission under the circumstances granted, for the three University boys to ride. It is to be understood, however, that such a concession is made with the understanding that the same request will not be made again.

Organ Music and Organ Playing.
Organ music reached its climax with Bach. It may perhaps be said that all music did. At any rate, one thing is certain—viz, if there has been any progress in music since the day of Bach, it has been due to him. Bach's music is polyphonic, and polyphony is true music. To its foundation upon this school is due the fact that there has been no decadence in music in Germany. There has been no advance in polyphony since the days of Bach. Such advances as have been made, has been in originality and boldness of modulation.
For pure organ music Bach still is and probably will always remain the greatest of all composers. Even with all the modern mechanical appliances that have been attached to the organ, his works are still very difficult—perhaps the most difficult of organ compositions. He must have been a great organist as he was a composer. That he should have been able to play upon the organ of his day works so exacting in technique as his own is simply marvelous.
It is one of the phenomena of musical history that, while orchestral, operatic and other branches of music were in their infancy in Bach's day and have developed since then, Bach brought organ music to its climax. He was not the small source whence flowed a rivulet which in time was to expand into a broad stream; he was the broad stream itself. The word "Bach" in German means a brook, which led a famous German composer to say punningly that this great master was not a Bach, but an ocean.—Forum.

Cramp in the Leg.
Many persons of both sexes are greatly troubled with cramp in one or both of their legs. It comes on suddenly and is very severe. Most people jump out of bed (it nearly always comes on either just after going to bed or while undressing) and ask some one to rub the leg.
There is nothing easier than to make the spasm let go its hold, and it can be accomplished without sending for a doctor, who may be tired and in need of a good night's rest. When I have a patient who is subject to cramp, I always advise him to provide himself with a good strong cord. A long garter will do if nothing else is handy. When the cramp comes on, take the cord, wind it around the leg over the place that is cramped and take an end in each hand and give it a sharp pull—one that will hurt a little. Instantly the cramp will depart, and the sufferer can go to bed assured it will not come on again that night. I have saved myself many a good night's rest simply by posting my patients subject to spasms of the legs how to use the cord as above. I have never known it to fail, and I have tried it after they had worked half the night and the patient was in the most intense agony.—New York Ledger.

Peculiar Trade Customs.
The Armenians and Jews the entire mercantile traffic of west Asia, are accustomed to sit down and weep bitterly when they have sold any article of value, declaring that the purchaser has ruined them.
The Jews, on similar occasions, rend their garments, which are worn purposely for such sacrifice, with still louder protestations of ruin. In Asia Russia the shopkeepers consider it incumbent upon them to at first refuse to sell their goods to any customer, and the latter is expected to employ himself at least an hour in persuading the merchant to deal with him.
But the most remarkable custom is that which prevails among the merchants of Tibet, a regular hand to hand fight being required to take place between the seller and the purchaser on the disposal of any considerable quantity of goods, the former obstinately refusing the price to which he had first agreed, and the latter as resolutely forcing it upon him. It is not considered businesslike to settle matters until a few blows have been exchanged, after which they peacefully shake hands and the bargain is concluded.—Exchange.

He Wanted Sailors.
Lieutenant Carlin, the executive officer of the Vandalia during the terrible hurricane in the harbor of Apia, Samoa, was an enthusiastic ball player, and while the crew was at Mare island prior to their Samoan trip he had given the preference in the selection of sailors to those who could play his favorite game. During the hurricane, after the vessel struck the reef and the men were clinging to the rigging, with the surf sweeping over the deck, many of the men were washed overboard. Lieutenant Carlin determined to make a desperate attempt to carry a line from one part of the vessel to the main yard. Into the howling wind he shouted, "I want some volunteers—good sailors!"
And out of the darkness a voice replied, "Lieutenant, there ain't no sailors here, but there's plenty of ball players!"—San Francisco Arconteur.
The Popular Fox Terrier.

All terriers are good. They are as shrewd, game, loyal small chaps as ever stood upon canine feet or gazed at their owner with soulful, loving eyes, and of them all I prefer the fox terrier, either wire haired or smooth coated. These aristocratic, diminutive gentlemen unquestionably are today the most popular dogs in the wide, wide world, and there are many excellent reasons why this should be so. From the palace to the cottage these dogs have proved their sterling qualities to the satisfaction of all concerned, and they are especially well suited to the conditions which govern in crowded centers.
When the big St. Bernard, mastiff, Dane or other heavy breed is panting in the contracted back yard, howling on chain, pining for exercise and freedom, the terrier is merely having fun, busy-ing himself about the house, warning off doubtful intruders and generally attending to everything which appears to require supervision. Clever, alert and stout hearted, he never relaxes his guard, and he fears nothing. His cleverness as a rule is a safeguard against his making mistakes regarding the desirability of visiting strangers. He seems instinctively to recognize persons who are not wanted about the premises, and vows to them if their mission be evil and their desire a stealthy invasion. He protests promptly and vigorously, and he will not cease until some one of his household has appeared and taken charge of the matter.

Horace Greeley's Eccentric Ideas.
Even his eccentric ideas were made plausible by his treatment. I heard him say once that what was then thought to be the Great American desert ought to be planted with Canada thistles so as to give nature some sort of a green start, when other vegetation might be made to follow. But the trouble is Canada thistles, like any other thing inspired by "pure cussedness," will only grow and thrive where they ought not to.
Find a place where their presence would do some good, and, as in the Humpty Dumpty case, "all the king's horses and all the king's men" could not fasten them there. This perverseness suggests in a certain way the small boys' conception of good and bad—his encliridion of nature and life.
"What's fun," he said, "is always wicked; what we don't want to do is pious." Mr. Greeley would cut down his alders in the spring. When I mildly suggested to him that our agricultural authorities preferred the autumn for that work, when nature could not so well aid their struggle for existence, he thought this reason was a mere excuse for not cutting them at all.—Joel Ben-

A Bright Bird.
The cuckoo is as likely to steal its nest as to make it, but this fact does not take from the point of the following pun, quoted from Short Stories: A young Englishman being asked at dinner whether he would have some bird's nest pudding, said, turning to his hostess, "Ah, yes, bird's nest pudding, and what kind of a bird may have made it?"
"Oh, it was the cuckoo who made it," was her prompt reply.
